Luke Murrell's professionalpunting.com.au Gloaming Stakes preview - Rosehill R8

A nice result last time with us nailing Gayatri at the big odds! The race that will give us an edge this weekend is the Group 3 Gloaming Stakes. The big worry here is the main one's in the market are all connected coming out of the same main lead up.

Horse	Comment
Just Thinkin'	Very nice horse who started 10/1 in the lead up. Got a picnic to the 800m. He might make a mug of me but I thought he should have been much stronger despite being 2 nd up. Now up 300m he goes into a fast run race and that is the worry for his supporters. His first up win was when they walked as well. He's a genuine chance as well in here under the conditions. His $3.20 and I think that's a touch short albeit he can win.	$3.1
Shadow Hero	Back and on the fence in a walking race but he really attacked the line. Now into a fast run race that appears to be a super tick for him. I think he settles midfield here and if we have a fair track then he is the one to beat.	$4
Subedar	Had the perfect run 2 pairs back the fence and was very much suited on the day with the bias. He is a chance but will be back and possibly wide this run and after having PIR last time is a chance but I doubt him at the trip after looking at his sectionals.	$6
Quick Thinker	In a low rating race he owned Subedar when they meet although the SP that day was $3 vs $11 and that's the concern. We know Sepoys don't handle wet tracks also so you could genuinely forgive Subedar which is a drag on Quick Thinker who we know from his NZ form is a wet track swimmer which is what he got 1 st up in Aus. The figures out of his race are horrible but I note he had a great last 1000m and a strong last 200m suggesting trip is no issue.	$3.8
Rahaeger	A NZ horse by Pluck and they are almost exclusively wet trackers. He was out of the Quick Thinker race and started double his price and was owned. He couldn't turn the tables and put a line through him.	$19

Fasano	Sat on a slow speed and was outsprinted last time. Maybe he wants a fast run race like we will get here and he did have the third best last 200m of the race, and that was from the front with only the two back run on horses had a stronger last 200m. Include in exotics.	$16
War Baron	11 starts to break his maiden but he beat 2 decent in form horses last time. He'll be back and wide. Is collett to Boss though and I don't think he has the class.	$23
Sirmaze	Blinkers go on here but we are dreaming if he wins.	$41
Extraordinary	If you think you are having a bad day spare a thought for these poor owners, $800,000 for this bloke. He has blinkers on, got a horrible ride last start when 6w around home bend after being 4wide. I think that race will be a good race and 3 rd up he comes here with different form albiet he needs to improve 5-6 lengths at least to be in the finish. Exotics definitely though. I've seen worse $61 chances.	$61
Lucky Emperor	He is like me, he tries very hard but just not much good.	$51
Persan	He has been in slowly run races both times this prep, and he actually ran ok when he was in fast run races in his first prep. But he was weaker home than the winner of that race and he sat 6 lengths off the leader and still couldn't be stronger late so his a penjob.	$81
Way back When	Races like he has never been educated which we know isn't correct. In the Autumn I think he might be up to this level but whilst he didn't handle Canterbury his just too dumb to include just yet.	$81
Shining Eagle	Just can't have him. Does get blinkers but has too big a job to do to turn the tables.	$101

In summary whilst I was keen to back different form you are basically backing some one batters from maidens or you find Quick Thinker of something from the Just Thinkin race.

How we are betting here is backing Shadow Here for 2 units @ $4.20. I think Quick Thinker could win so we will save 1 unit on him at the $4 with the different form and 1 of those two should win.

I also think at the price Extraordinary 1 unit the place at $13 is a great bet, he doesn't map well but he brings different form also and I'm hoping he is taken to last and sucks up through the field rather than a wide and circling run.

BET: Shadow Hero - 2 units @ $4.20

BET: Extraordinary - 1 unit the place at $13

BET: Quick Thinker - 1 unit @ $4

Last Week: Gayatri +10u

Running Tally: +7u
